Battle Ground Community Library and Yacolt Library Express
Monthly Report August 2023

Connections

We had 11,158 people come into the library this month.

Youth Services put on twelve programs, one SAYL event, and two outreaches. These served a total of 380 patrons in-house and 164 off-site.

Angelika and Summer facilitated our final SAYL event this summer. Paradise of Samoa was beautiful.

Summer At Your Library statistics have been encouraging. As of August 15, Battle Ground had 1,271 sign-ups and 216 finishers. By the 25th, these increased to 1,282 sign-ups and 456 finishers.

There were 64 participants for our Monday Mixers this month. Families are really enjoying this time to connect with others or just hang out with the kids and play.

The three of us shared Baby Storytime with a total of 82 attendees this month. Angelika did the first, Sarah the second, and Genevieve did the final Baby Storytime of the season. Genevieve hid paper chicks in plastic eggs to roll around the room while reading Big Fat Hen. The littles were adorable, and the activity was a big hit.

Family Storytime had 168 people attend for the final month of the Summer Storytime series. Genevieve hosted a bubble party outside after her last storytime and there were bubbles everywhere! Sarah had littles painting with water at the beginning of the month and playing with the parachute during the final storytime of summer.

Our end of summer Teen Ice Cream Social was a popular event. Eighteen teens helped themselves to an ice cream bar, chatted, and played UNO, Cards Against Humanity Family Edition, chess, or 3D Tetris.

Eighteen people also came to Genevieve’s Build It! program this month. The YES Interns were a big help with setting up, cleaning, and assisting builders looking for that perfect piece.

Over three weeks, the YES interns helped with programs, made cards for senior living facilities, learned about library resources and databases with Julie, trained on 3D printing with Evan, and generally helped out with anything and everything.

Genevieve’s last summer outreach at Kiwanis Park included the YES Interns. This was a great opportunity for the interns to witness working with another group and being out in the community visiting with families who might not be able to come to the library building. She read a couple of books to an avid book lover and chatted with several people who had already signed up for summer reading.

Sarah and one of our YES interns went to the Hockinson Heights Elementary School Community Fair for our last outreach of the summer. Lamar became an expert on the button maker and helped explain how it worked to students.

Summer hosted a Family Crafternoon program on how to create alcohol inks and watercolors. Bonnie from CP came to help.

Summer helped with District outreach efforts at the Art in the Park event in Vancouver.

Partnerships

The Clark County Museum put a "Back to School" display in our Alexander case. Items were a selection of BG school-related items from the museum's archives.

Summer hosted DIY: Simple Wills with the Washington Law Library. 20 people attended.

Julie and Summer collaborated to provide the program Use Food Well: Food Waste Prevention in partnership with Waste Connections. Six people attended.

I hosted my monthly morning book discussion. Six people attended and gave praise to the month's selection.

Organizational Culture

Genevieve attended the BG staff meeting and Safety Committee Meetings.

Summer participated on the Employee Recognition Committee and attended one webinar, Libraries Helping Refugees and New Immigrants Learn the US Financial System from WebJunction. She found it really interesting and useful for planning some future programming.

Summer hosted a virtual English Conversation Circle.

I participated in the Rev Reads Committee meeting.

Battle Ground hosted an all-day in-person DMM.

Yacolt

The Yacolt Library welcomed over 2800 patrons for the month of August.

On August 1st we attended National Night out in Yacolt and had a great time creating pool noodle art. We were very busy and saw close to 100 people at our table, and it was a great opportunity to connect with the community. FOYLE also had a table set up next to us and Debbie raffled off 2 great baskets.

On August 12th we hosted Creature Teacher in the park next to the library. It was a great presentation and well attended with 60 people. Many stopped in to the library after the show and got library cards and checked out books.

On August 18th we set up the DIY book activity in the library foyer and many patrons stopped in to create a masterpiece.

We have also continued our Wednesday and Friday craft workshops. This month we stuck to a “bug” theme and created all things bugs.

We were excited to see the town of Yacolt come by to repaint our parking lot. It was much needed and looks great. Lastly, our facilities department has started the process of installing our new windows. Definitely a nice improvement to the building. It will be nice to have the project completed.

Here are a few of our favorite pictures for the month:

Public Services Division August Board Report

The Public Service Division has fulfilled our mission

Strengthening communities through knowledge, experience, and creativity across the district. Below is a sampling of the activities and services we provided to our communities during the month of July. This is by no means an exhaustive list, but instead just a few of the many ways we help our communities to thrive. This report includes all departments within the Division:

- Branches
- Bookmobiles
- OCP-Programs, outreach, volunteers services

Equity

Reaching under-served communities throughout FVRLibraries

Ridgefield

- Creature Teachers was the last of our SAYL programs, taking place August 3. This program squarely met my goal of holding a program at South Ridge Elementary, roughly halfway between the Ridgefield Community Library and Three Creeks Community Library. This was also the first SAYL program I've held in the evening. I was pleasantly surprised at the good attendance, and it goes without saying that people who attended were happy. We will offer another evening program next Summer.

Three Creeks

- On Thursdays, we went to different parks in the community and brought activities to patrons who couldn't come to the library. We were able to see a lot of new faces and provide quality programs to kids who lacked transportation. The last park visit was to Hazel Dell Park, where the kids made balloon-propelled cars.
- During a performance with Angel Ocasio, a child was struggling with the volume of the show so Kathleen gave them the sensory earmuffs. The family was able to stay for the whole show and said 'thank you' afterwards. VA WD

Woodland

Woodland hosted the Paradise Dancers, exposing families to "island culture"

Volunteer Services

- We re-started a new ECC (English Conversation Circle) in June at our CP Library (5:30 to 7:00 pm on Wednesdays). We had closed the group in early 2020 due to the pandemic. It has tripled in attendance in less than three months (from three to ten regulars attending in August). I have popped in and visited the group a couple times and the new volunteers are doing a fantastic job. They were trained by our virtual ECC volunteers plus we had a training session with veteran ECC volunteer, Milton Jones and they also took some of the resources I keep in my office for this purpose. These volunteers are very excited about helping others and are prepared, enthusiastic plus very generous (in donating pre packed snacks, water bottles, and other resources).

Connections: Making connection inside, off site, virtually

Battle Ground

- Our end of summer Teen Ice Cream Social was a popular event. Eighteen teens helped themselves to an ice cream bar, chatted, and played UNO, Cards Against Humanity Family Edition, chess, or 3D Tetris.

Goldendale

- The Friends of the Goldendale Library brought back the well-beloved Ice Cream Social, resulting in 250 attendees who enjoyed ice cream, root beer floats, cookies, music, and a cake auction! You can view photos and a short clip of one of the bands here and below.
- Our Kraken Up egg drop program was an egg-tastic program. Some of the contraptions were so strong that we had to go outside to find a higher place to drop them!

La Center

- We made some Botjoys this month, which is something we heard about from a patron & is sort of like painted rocks only on dominoes. So we gave everyone several of our Goodwill dominoes & paint pens and they went to town creating robots, cats, spiderman...whatever - it was great!
- Our Magic Treehouse book party was really well attended with a couple of the daycares busing in their kids for the program. We wrapped them up as mummies, played tag with a friendly dinosaur, created treehouses, sank pirate ships, and made hieroglyph bookmarks,
- The Kraken Egg Drop was another great program with lots of kids talking about last year's event and some new kiddos too. They had definitely learned from last year though, because the rate of cracked eggs had dropped significantly from last year. There were many parachutes and this seemed to really work.

Ridgefield

- We had a booth at National Night Out on August 1st. We provided a simple activity while the Friends, who were next to us, gave out free books to kids. The YES interns helped staff the table and are in this photograph.

Stevenson/North Bonneville

- Skamania County Bookmobile was off the road for about a week for an unsuccessful repair. We still managed to attend several community events in the Gorge including an Ice Cream Social in White Salmon, Health Fair in Trout Lake, and the Skamania County Fair in Stevenson. Weekly visits at low income housing in White Salmon, Stevenson, and continued access at a Fishing Access Site serving primarily Yakama tribal members.
- This was the second full month of the Little Lending Library in the shared lobby of North Bonneville Community Library and City Hall. Patrons have appreciated the additional service. Check outs at NB still show no significant change yet, but the patrons that are using it find it easier than the previous setup for holds and really appreciate having this new service.

Vancouver

We did the Wheelin It program this month and utilized our ramps to help the carts go.

Washougal

- Zoe gave a presentation to the Camas Washougal Chamber of Commerce about small business resources that the library offers to businesses and entrepreneurs. Information about the new library building and current and past fundraising events were also presented.
- Louie Foxx was our last summer performer and we had a packed house of 108 people in the library.

White Salmon

- White Salmon Valley hosted their annual Recycled City building/stem program. This program is hosted over a three week period and brings in about 150 builders working cooperatively and independently to create an amazing rendition of their little town. super hot day, so they served popsicles.

Woodland

- Participating in Hot Summer Nights at Horseshoe Lake Park was a good way to connect with families and the older crowd. We joined the Friends of Woodland Library twice in August at this community-planned event. The collection of program services' giant games (especially the parachute) continues to be very popular with all ages. Of course we answered a lot of questions about the new library building project and are thankful for the beautiful brochures we were able to hand out.
- Adult book discussion took a leap in attendance this past month by adding three new people, bringing the total to 16. Connie said this about the group:
- "The discussions are lively and very enlightening. The group is very open and passionate about the pros and cons of the titles we read. No one gets offended when disagreements occur, instead it opens the door to more deeper conversations."
 - Book groups play a very vital role in the social health of our senior citizens. This age group is so often neglected and dismissed. I see how positive these meetings are to the Woodland community. They remind us that libraries have a responsibility in making sure our senior populations are not ignored, but cared for and valued. I feel so lucky to facilitate this wonderful group of readers.

Yacolt

- On August 1st we attended National Night out in Yacolt and had a great time creating pool noodle art. We were very busy and saw close to 100 people at our table, and it was a great opportunity to connect with the community. FOYLE also had a table set up next to us and Debbie raffled off 2 great baskets.

Volunteer Services

- Nine interns, through a service learning program called YES and hosted by ESD112 worked with our Volunteer Coordinator Sherry Braga.. These students have disabilities, but are eager to learn. They all got library cards (most for the first time, hurrah!) and checked out a lot of materials. As part of their internship, they read the award winning graphic novel, "When Stars Are Scattered" by Victoria Jamieson & Omar Mohamed. We also arranged a first ever "Gorge Tour" where they were able to tour Stevenson, North Bonneville, Washougal & White Salmon. They also were able to participate in the White Salmon Photo Shoot with other volunteers. We had lunch at the Bonneville Dam (which most coming from marginalized situations had never been to.... the awe & wonder on their faces while watching salmon was priceless). They did a weekly check in with the group and then helped at individual branches with volunteer related tasks at BG, CP, RI & WD (so all of them toured at least six libraries throughout August). On their last day we did a mini-tour of the new OC and they were wowed by the trucks that Facilities showed them and the printing machines in Graphics. They finished their summer with a whole new view of the library! Their confidence soared (after coming in very unsure of themselves, uncertain what kind of people would be at the library (which they found out were quite nice) and feeling timid about a brand new experience. By the wrap-up, they felt they could do anything!

OCP

- We wrapped up 2023's program to great feedback from staff and patrons. Our registration numbers have continued to climb in the last few years. Though we're not quite back to pre-COVID numbers, we did see a nearly 25% increase in participation from 2022 to 2023. In addition to the challenge itself, in-library programming returned to something more traditional, and staff also worked to bring the SAYL challenge, materials (including books), and activities to thousands of youth via outreach as well. I'm attaching some pictures of kids picking up their Grand Prizes as well as some pics from SAYL Outreach activities with Vancouver Parks and Rec. I'm still compiling my full summer wrap up and should have it ready by the end of next week. We've already begun working on 2024 planning, which will be a similar format to 2023, and 2025, which may see a shift towards more intentional year-round learning instead of just SAYL

Partnerships

Working across the entire service area along with communities organizations to build two-way relationships to reach a mutually agreed upon goal

Goldendale

- For the second year I visited Lyle School's teacher inservice day and gave a tour of online resources, how to order books delivered on the BKK, etc. There were a lot of questions and positive feedback from the teachers about what FVRL has to offer.

Vancouver Mall

- Amanda went to Sifton Elementary and did a story time and craft with their aftercare group. WS
- The library led the kids' activity at the farmers market three times this month. Storywalks, giant games, sidewalk art, water rockets and shake-and-make slushies were all part of the fun.

Woodland

- Volunteering for one of the outreach/partnership activities was one of the highlights of my month. I joined Marilyn from RI in a short kids hike with Jessica Becker, author of the “Little Feet Hiking” series. The group of parents and children hiked through the Whipple Creek Reserve practicing wayfinding and recording their observations. OCP equipment was well organized and I was impressed with the loan of compasses, binoculars, backpacks, journals and water bottles.

BKK

- The bookmobile once again participated in Goldendale’s annual Back to School Bash, which is an opportunity for students to get basic school supplies before school as well as enter a drawing for a new backpack with more prizes inside. This year 224 visitors dropped by, many saying thank you for our service and showing up to these events. Some of the kiddos said they love it when we come to the school. There was also a special shout out to the Bookmobile from some Centerville school students. One patron dropped by just to share his appreciation of the library and our service, noting that we are enjoying some tough times, but they will soon pass. The lawn games were a big hit, resulting in an impromptu cornhole game competition with the high school kids. Very fun to watch.

Staff Innovation: Finding better ways to serve the diverse communities we serve.

Battle Ground

- Battle Ground staff have been creating interesting displays. The one pictured below says “Of all the libraries in the world, you walked into this one”, with all books of movie stars.

Cascade Park

Our parking lot was re-sealed and striped this month & it looks fabulous!

- Susan attended a Leadership Academy training
- Teri finished up her Adulting 101 class
- All the La Center employees got together this month for an after hours summer BBQ - lots of fun & great food!

Three Creeks

- Laura has been working with Glendyne Reinmiller (TSD) to display some of her personal collections in our lobby display case. In August, Glendyne showcased her Travel Souvenir Collection. These have been widely popular with our patrons with many paying kind words and sharing their appreciation for each of the displays Glendyne has put together for us.

Vancouver Mall

- A huge thank you to the Sunday crew at VA and, specifically, Ainsley for coming to VM not once but twice on Sundays to help us keep our doors open. I greatly appreciate them making their day a bit more challenging by giving us some much-needed help here.

OCP

- OCP has finished our Program Part 2: Partnerships training and are working with branch managers right now to get those scheduled, likely starting in October. This training will start with branch leadership and seek to get their input on logistics elements so we can hopefully have all of the pieces needed for our SLAs when they take the training.

Patron Comments

To the Librarians at Three Creeks,

Thank you so much for a summer full of events and storytimes! You filled our days with joy, learning, love, and structure and routine. We made amazing memories! Thank you!

From WSV

Our Teen SAYL Winner used to be a participant at my baby storytimes at TC, but moved here a few years ago with his family.

He didn't remember me, but the mom was so excited to discover me here. This was his 1st year being eligible for the teen prize, and he's very excited!

His mom also just shared that they are still close friends with a family that they met in my storytime and recently had a big camping trip together.

Foundation Relationship and MOU

To: Board of Trustees

From: Justin Keeler, Interim Executive Director

Date: September 18, 2023

Subject: Foundation Relationship and MOU

Summary:

The relationship between FVRLibraries and the FVRL Foundation has frayed over time. Improving the relationship will be an important factor in the success of multiple capital projects, all of which are District priorities. The Interim Executive Director for FVRLibraries and the Executive Director of the Foundation have committed to weekly meetings between the two entities with the desired outcomes being a renewed focus on Library priorities, a normalized relationship, and a clear delineation of roles and responsibilities of both parties. This will be accomplished through collaborative decisions regarding the updated MOU between both organizations. We will use this time to also coordinate actions around fund raising for the capital projects.

Recommendation:

Allow time for the Interim Executive Director and the Foundation Executive Director to attempt to stabilize the relationship prior to moving forward with a Board Foundation Policy.

Surplus Outreach Cart

To: Board of Trustees

From: Justin Keeler, Interim Executive Director

Date: September 18, 2023

Subject: Surplus Outreach Cart

Summary:

FVRLibraries contracted for, consulted on design, and purchased an aluminum cart for Outreach purposes in 2017 . It has been identified as surplus by our Outreach and Community Partnership Division due to the fact that the hardware has broken and is irreparable by both the firm that constructed it and our Facilities team.

Due to the monetary value associated with building the cart, approximately $5,000, FVRL will endeavor to sell it for its market value, if any. It is necessary for the Board of Trustees to declare the item as surplus.

Recommendation:

Approve Resolution 2023-18 to allow FVRL to designate the Outreach Cart as surplus.

Letter: Protect local libraries

 columbian.com/news/2023/aug/23/letter-protect-local-libraries

By Teresa Torres, Vancouver

I was reading The Columbian editorial on the move to close the library in Dayton. (“Close library? Plan reflects disturbing trend,” In Our View, Aug. 15). Some residents there are attempting to permanently close the library as they feel the library is giving minors access to materials with sexual content.

Did you read the editorial and think that could never happen here? Think again. Attend any Fort Vancouver Regional Library board meeting. You will hear the same rhetoric from people claiming the library is “not safe” for children; that librarians are purposely displaying material to “sexualize children.” OK, you think, our library will never ban books. Look at the library board. One member, right before being appointed to the board, was attempting to remove a book she objected to. When the board meeting was held in her town, most of the public comments were from members of her church all purporting that the library is harmful to minors.

Read the back of the library card. “Parents and guardians are responsible for the selection choices of their own minor children.” Don’t like a book, then don’t check it out but do not prevent others from reading any book they want whether it is about sex, politics or religion.

The Reflector

Award-winning Western songwriter Kerry Grombacher will present his concert program

“Songs and Stories of the American West” at four of the Fort Vancouver Regional Libraries including Ridgefield. The concert programs are free to the public.

The concert at the Ridgefield Community Library will start at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 7. Additional concert programs are scheduled for the Cascade Park, Stevenson and Goldendale community libraries. For information on the Cascade Park concert program, visit fvrl.librarymarket.com/songs-stories-american-west.

“In the spirit of the troubadours of old, Kerry Grombacher’s contemporary folk and Western songs paint vivid portraits and tell fascinating stories that are set in the landscape he travels, from the bayous of Louisiana, through the desert Southwest, to the Hi-Line of Montana and the forests of the Pacific Northwest,” according to a press release.

“Range of the Buffalo,” the title track of his 2021 CD, was named song of the year by the International Western Music Association. His songs about the region include “Along the John Day River,” which was rooted in his experiences fighting forest fires in the Malheur National Forest in eastern Oregon in the early 1970s.

Grombacher logs as many as 40,000 miles each year driving from show to show, and he is a regular visitor to Washington, the release states.

“I’m looking forward to performing throughout the Fort Vancouver Regional Library system,” Grombacher said in the release. “I know I’ll meet some great folks, and I’ll have five days to explore the gorgeous Washington side of the Columbia River, from Vancouver to Goldendale.”
